

The Irwin and Vivian M. Weil Fund
Travel and Language Study Grants

2019-2020

Travel and language study grants are available to undergrads and grad students studying Russian, Polish, Czech and other Slavic languages at Northwestern University. Grants are provided to students who need additional language study during the summer or as part of a study abroad program during the regular academic year. Requests for other travel funding – conferences, research, etc. – may also be considered. Applications are reviewed on a rolling basis, and grant amounts vary. Grants will typically not exceed $600 (domestic) or $1,000 (international). To apply for a grant, please complete and submit this form to the Department of Slavic Languages and Literatures. (Questions? Contact the Department office at 847-491-5636.)

Date: _____

Name: _____

Email and phone: _____

Major and Minor: _____

Year at Northwestern: _____

Briefly describe your program or conference, including name, location, dates and cost:

Please state why your participation is vital to your academic program:

Please attach:

- 1) a provisional budget, showing total costs (airfare, fees, living expenses, etc.), what funds you have already, what you have applied for, and what other sources of support you are seeking;
- 2) proof of acceptance into this program or conference